Information Disclosure Statement

The listing of references in the Search Report is not considered to be an information disclosure statement (IDS) complying with 37 CFR 1.98. 37 CFR 1.98(a)(2) requires a legible copy of: (1) each foreign patent; (2) each publication or that portion which caused it to be listed; (3) for each cited pending U.S. application, the application specification including claims, and any drawing of the application, or that portion of the application which caused it to be listed including any claims directed to that portion, unless the cited pending U.S. application is stored in the Image File Wrapper (IFW) system; and (4) all other information, or that portion which caused it to be listed. In addition, each IDS must include a list of all patents, publications, applications, or other information submitted for consideration by the Office (see 37 CFR 1.98(a)(1) and (b)), and MPEP § 609.04(a), subsection I. states, "the list ... must be submitted on a separate paper." Therefore, the references cited in the Search Report have not been considered. Applicant is advised that the date of submission of any item of information or any missing element(s) will be the date of submission for purposes of determining compliance with the requirements based on the time of filing the IDS, including all "statement" requirements of 37 CFR 1.97(e). See MPEP § 609.05(a).

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. For claim 1, it is improper/confusing to conditionally claim a feature, i.e. "as well as-if appropriate- a central rail". Also, it is improper/confusing to claim/state that a feature is "known per se", since many different types of bearing constructions are known is it unclear which is being referred to. Finally, it is unclear whether or not the guide rails are to be claimed in combination with the bearings and, if so, what the relationship the rails have to each other and to the bearings. For claim 2, stating "the cage or cages" is indefinite, since only plural cages have been claimed previously. Also "the receptacles" lacks antecedent basis. For claim 3, "the vertical profile" lacks antecedent basis. Also, it is unclear which "the cage" is being referred to, since plural cages have been claimed previously. For claim 4, it is improper/confusing to claim/state that a feature is "known per se", since many types of dampers are known in the art. Also, "the pull-out path" and "the retraction direction" lacks antecedent basis. Finally, it is unclear whether or not the drawer is to be claimed in combination with the guides/bearings. For claim 5, it is improper/confusing to claim/state that a feature is "known per se", since many types of rails are known. Also, it is indefinite to claim a feature as "-like". It either is the feature stated or is not. Finally, it is unclear whether or not the adjoining rail is to be positively claimed in combination with the guide. At first, the rail is introduced in an intended use/"for" statement; however, later in the claim, a feature of the adjoining rail, the profile arm, is positively claimed. For claim 6, it is indefinite to claim a feature as "-like". For claim 8, it is indefinite to claim a feature as "-like". Also for claim 8, it is unclear whether or not the adjoining rail is to be positively claimed in combination with the guide. At first, the rail is introduced in an intended use/"for" statement; however, later in the claim, a feature of the adjoining rail, the profile arm, is positively claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Rock et al (4,351,575). Rock teaches a pull-out guide (Fig. 8) having a carcass rail (3), an intermediate rail (2), a running rail (1) and anti-friction bearings (4,5) in between the rails. The bearings includes rollers (6) which are horizontally offset with respect to each other and run on the same track (2'; on opposite sides thereof).

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 2-9 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
